

The image features a dark, textured background with a large, white, multi-pointed star-like shape. The shape is composed of several overlapping, elongated triangular segments that radiate from a central point. The points of the star are sharp and elongated, giving it a dynamic, almost explosive appearance. The overall composition is minimalist and modern.

Preparation for the school day really begins with the study the night before.

Evon Kerr and Glen Williams, two popular Ada High seniors, help us tell the story of the end and beginning of an Ada High day.

Glenn makes early-morning preparation.

When they are finally ready Glen and Evon make the trip to the high school.

The many rural students at Ada High are transported to school on busses driven by these aimable gentlemen: Charles Reese, Nolen Burman, Vernon Wolke, Dean Moore, and Bernard Epley.

Bob LaRue keeps our busses in good repair and makes sure that they are running smoothly.

SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE

"My Ada School Days." What does this mean to you as a student? Study, hard work, satisfaction in a job well done; or does it mean loafing, truancy, and wasted time. The above characteristics are a part of each one of us and our lives to come. You are currently building the foundations for the life you will live in the twenty-first century. Build these foundations deep and firm so yours will be a life of production and satisfaction. Why do you have the above mentioned impressions of Ada School? Have you had a fair opportunity to develop your God-given talents? I encourage each one of you to apply yourself to the full time job you are doing today as a student. Your parents, your school, and your community are interested in your development and will assist in this development in every way possible.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

TO A STUDENT

When you enter the high school in grade seven, the distance to the auditorium stage (where all diplomas are awarded) may seem long. This distance can be shortened by the simple expedient of working hard each day, by participating in some extracurricular activity, by becoming interested in doing more than the minimum assignment, by being friendly, by practicing smiling, and by being optimistic, punctual, and dependable. These traits cost very little and the dividends are great indeed.

For the first time in years Ada High's concert band, under the direction of Mr. Ansley, went to State Band Contest, and their hard work was rewarded by an excellent rating. Mr. Ansley proudly said that it was an honor to go to the state contest and receiving an Excellent was a great accomplishment. He added that all the practice for the contest was done in the regular school time and no other classes were upset. The band is to be commended for this in itself. We would like to say to all the band members and Mr. Ansley that we are proud of them.

Miriam Hall also received a Superior rating on her baritone solo at the State Contest.

The Student Council aids in developing co-operation and mutual understanding between our school administration and the student body. The Student Council gives the students an opportunity to work along with the administrators and teachers in planning some of the school's activities, helping to solve problems which arise, and in making suggestions for the improvement of the school.

Four seniors, three juniors, two sophomores, two freshmen, plus two seventh and two eighth graders comprise the Student Council.

Among the many activities sponsored by the Student Council are the sale of activity tickets, assemblies, Homecoming, Interclass, and the junior high and senior high parties.

The Christmas Season was ushered in at Ada High School by the annual Christmas pageant. Some of the participants were Earl Fisher, Alice Hewitt, Meredith Hewitt, and Diane Hanson,

As members of the French Club, students further their knowledge and understanding of French life and French people. At monthly meetings members give reports on items such as French history, literature, music, and art.

Fudge sales are held during the year at football and basketball games. The funds from these sales are used for the purchase of French paintings and literature for the classroom. The last event of the year is the French banquet.

We, the annual staff, have spent many challenging hours trying to portray to you the goals, accomplishments, failures, and problems of the Ada High students. We hope that in the future you will be able to relive these moments of happiness and despair.

We, in the hurry and scurry to meet deadlines, have built up and torn down our yearbook many times in the process of its making, so as to produce a book you will enjoy. We will feel well repaid, if when you look through this book, you will say, "I remember . . ."

Business Manager Nancy Elwood receives money from Assistants Brad Hindall and Leslie Allen.

Voice Views

The Voice staff reviews the current situations, school life, and extracurricular activities of the Ada High students in order to publish a successful bi-weekly newspaper. Many of its members traveled to Athens, Ohio, last summer to acquire more knowledge of journalism. Each member of the Voice staff is continually learning more about journalism and at the same time gaining valuable experience.

The Voice staff is forever striving for recognition in district and national contests. We are proud to say that the Voice received All American Honor Rating from the National Scholastic Press Association Critical Rating Service for 1961-1962. The Voice is a member of N.S.P.A. and N.O.D.J.A.

Believe it or not!

Mrs. Price beams with pride as she shows the ALL AMERICAN HONOR RATING certificate to some of the VOICE staff.
